

6voices 3days 250+connections (w/balloons)

By Rob Neill ©2010

From 'go' Eevin is DSR, sitting on the edge of the stage, blows up balloons (each balloon has a letter in this order: a r t w o r k s), she ties the balloon, presents to Jeffrey and then on the bell ring holds up to audience and hits balloon out to the audience. Jeffrey sits DSL on the edge of the stage and rings bell whenever Eevin presents balloon.

Adam, Desiree, Christopher and Rob stand dispersed about the stage. There are also 4 1-page scrolls of the post-it exercise papers (from interactive break earlier in the Summit) placed across the front of the stage. Bolded lines are said in unison.

DES: that it boils down to changing people's lives one person at a time . . .

ROB: and maybe you see it right away

LOAR: or maybe you see it ten years later

ADAM: or not but...

DES: It's all here because of art

ROB: Think of you chair you are sitting in right now

LOAR: Talked of a belief we are quirky. Celebrate it!

ALL: Everything is culture.

ADAM: you exist in more than one moment in time

DES: if you are human you have to do it

ROB: Belief that it all has significance.

Adam starts telling a brief story of the summit starting with 'I came to this summit and found...', then at 'found' Rob starts 'I came to this summit and found...', then Des does the same, finally Loar (the stories could be based on ideas, people, hotel, encounters, food, etc) and during this personal recounting each of the Neos moves to and picks up a scroll and unrolls that sheet of post-its. Once fully unrolled each Neo starts reading from it (this layers) which after about 15 seconds leads to the Neos setting down the paper onto the stage while saying...

All: This is a fight (building soft until all join it)

Once all the Neos have set the post-it scrolls down and are standing up and facing out...

All: This is a fight, so fight

LOAR: This is a way we can
ADAM: must recall
DES: As watches melt this time to memories smaller than the aches
you
ROB: feel for that long lost goldfish.
